A PETITION TO THE GRAND COUNCIL
OF THE INTERNATIONAL FRATERNITY OF DELTA SIGMA PI.

Gentlemen;

We, the undersigned members of Beta Alpha Mu, a professional business fraternity, hereby petition for a charter to establish a Chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi on the campus of Manhattan College, Bronx, New York.

Beta Alpha Mu was organized for the purpose of petitioning the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, and our Constitution and By-Laws were set up with the same aims, purposes, and requirements as those of Delta Sigma Pi.

In pursuit of this affiliation, we pledge ourselves to uphold the rules and regulations as set forth in the Constitution and By-Laws of Delta Sigma Pi and to adhere to the traditions of the organization.

History of the Bronx

The Borough of the Bronx was originally formed as part of what is now Westchester County. Its western boundary was the Hudson River; its eastern, the Connecticut Colony and Long Island Sound; its southern, the East and Harlem rivers and the Spuyten Duyvil Creek. The Borough of the Bronx was included within the county of Westchester until 1874 for the western part of the borough, and until 1895 for the eastern part. On January 1, 1898, the charter of the Greater New York went into effect, and the whole annexed section north of the Harlem River became officially known as the Borough of the Bronx - taking its name from the river that ran through it.

The Dutch were the first to settle in what is now known as the five boroughs of New York in the middle 1600's. The first known white settler to inhabit the Bronx was not Dutch but Swedish. In 1641 Jonas Bronk purchased five hundred acres of land between the Harlem and Aquahung rivers. The latter stream soon lost its Indian name and became known as Bronk's river, later to be revised to Bronx River.

The next to settle within the borough was Mrs. Ann Hutchinson, who originally settled in Boston in 1634. Because of religious persecution against her, she and her family migrated to what is known as Pelham's Neck. The Dutch called the neck after her, Annes Hoeck, or Ann's Neck. A stream running past her house still bears her name, Hutchinson's River.

In 1699 Jacobus Van Cortlandt married the adopted daughter of Frederick Philipse and bought fifty acres of land on George's Point and added to this about one hundred acres more that he purchased from neighboring landholders. These constituted the nucleus of the Van Cortlandt estate. Today, the Park has an area of 1,132.35 acres, with a lake for rowing, golfcourse, and stables. The Van Cortlandt House, contained within the park, is one of the famous old houses within the Greater New York area. It is still in excellent condition.

Van Cortlandt Park is second in size and first in point of interest of Bronx Parks. It extends from the city line on the north to West 240th Street-Van Cortlandt Park South-on the south. Its western boundary is Broadway, and its eastern Jerome Avenue and Mt. Vernon Ave.

The first purchase of land in the Riverdale area was bought by George Hadley from the Commissioners of Forfeiture in 1785. The next major purchase of land did not occur until 1853 when William and Garret Ackermann bought 100 acres of land along the Hudson River near the Riverdale railroad station. At this time no stores or villages, in the ordinary sense of the word, were constructed in Riverdale. The highest point of the borough is in Riverdale, 282 feet above sea level. Among other notable inhabitants was Mark Twain, who lived in the Riverdale area in 1901.

The area of land directly north of the Spuyten-Duyvil Creek was purchased by Frederick Van Cortlandt in 1768. Upon this land he erected an estate which became known as "Upper Cortlandt", to distinguish it from the mansion in Van Cortlandt Park. After his death, the estate passed onto his brother Augustus. But in 1836 James R. Whiting purchased the estate from his heirs and erected a large stone mansion overlooking the Hudson River.

In 1892, the remnant of the Whiting property came into the possession of the Sisters of Charity, who converted the large house into a hospital. Later a fine hospital was erected on Spuyten Duyvil Parkway, the whole institution being known as Seton Hospital. The hospital was shut down about 15 years ago and has since been demolished. Preparations for a new high school or apartment house is now in the process.

History of Riverdale

Riverdale, which is the extreme northwest corner of New York City, is probably the most rugged part of the city - at one point reaches an elevation of 282 feet - the highest in the city. Riverdale is bounded on the east and west by Broadway, and the Hudson River, by the Yonkers City line on the north, and by the Harlem ship canal on the south. Famous for old trees and splendid rock formations, Riverdale-on-Hudson is an oasis in a busy metropolis.

Indian tribes first occupied this area. They clustered in large settlements at the mouth of Spuyten Duyvil Creek and along the Nepperhan River.

One of the wealthiest colonists in New Amsterdam, Frederick Ulypse, was undoubtedly the most important purchaser of the land in the Riverdale area. In 1672 he bought land along the Hudson River. He gradually increased his holdings until they included Riverdale, Yonkers, Tarrytown, Croton and Tappan on the other side of the river. This extensive accumulation was combined in 1693 into the manor of Phillipsburgh. The southerly gatehouse of the Philpse Manor is the oldest house in modern Riverdale. It stands on the Albany Post Road at about 249th Street.

The impact of the Revolutionary War upon Riverdale thoroughly disrupted the community. Some like the Tippetts and the powerful Philpse family maintained their loyalty to the King; others espoused the cause of the Revolution.

Politically, Riverdale was a part of the township of Yonkers until 1872, when the New York State Legislature created the City of Yonkers at its present boundaries. The section to the south, including Riverdale, became the township of Kingsbridge. Two years later, the entire township was annexed to the City of New York as the twenty fourth ward.

Men of prominence in the business world, like the Delafields (banking) or the Kingsleys (insurance) set up permanent residences in Riverdale. Thus, a landed gentry of wealth and position became the dominant class in Riverdale. The average estate was between six and eighteen acres although there were some larger.

Riverdale retained an exclusively residential character for a long time. Citizens united in a common purpose to preserve its natural beauty against the encroachments of the city.

As time went on, over ten per cent of the section was given over to educational institutions. Today, Riverdale can boast of several excellent centers of learning, mere enumeration of which cannot do justice to them: Riverdale Country School, St. Margaret's Parochial School, Barnard School for Boys, Horance Mann School for Boys, Fieldston School, College of Mt. Saint Vincent and, of course, Manhattan College.

Manhattan College
Founded by Brothers of the Christian Schools

THE HISTORY OF MANHATTAN COLLEGE

In July, 1848, four Christian Brothers journeyed from Le Harvre, France, to open Saint Vincent's Parochial School on Canal Street in New York City. With the help of Father Lafont, Brother Stylien had been designated as director. Accompanying him was Brother Andronis, an experienced novice master with a dream of founding a novitiate in this new land, a dream he later saw fulfilled. Brother Albien was sub-director of the first community and Brother Pastoris came along as the footsoldier to carry out the orders of these directors. In September, 1848, they opened their little school with only three classes- two in French and one in English. Their success was almost instantaneous! Boarders were taken in and public examinations were held for admittance. The reputation of the little school spread so rapidly that the problem of expansion soon became tantamount in the little community.

Soon, boarding students clamored to enter but no additional room could be made for them. Brother Albien and Brother Pastoris were forced to the only conclusion, they must open a special school. There was another factor to be considered though, the Parish of St. Vincent's had already determined to follow the drift of the French speaking population and had established itself on its present site on 23rd. Street. The Brothers had to find a new novitiate and a new school as well! Accordingly, 44 Second Street was purchased and named De La Salle Institute. Boarders were moved to a building on Mulberry Street while the novitiate moved to Clason's Point.

Shortly thereafter, a boarding school was purchased by Brother Stylien in upper Manhattan at what is now 131st. Street. Sturdy and in good shape, the buildings were transformed into a school house and dormitories. By May 5th., the Brothers had moved in with neither food nor furniture available; Brother Chrysostom was made superior. Thus, in 1853 Manhattan College had its beginning in what was the Academy of The Holy Infancy. A year later, the College Chapel (a part of the old Annunciation Church) was opened. The land and the buildings now had an institutional look. The school had its own fire call, its own local court, its own post office, and its own station on the Hudson Rail Road.

In 1861, Brother Paulian changed the name of the school to Manhattan College "in honor of the historic island on which it stands." Brother Paulian became the second President of Manhattan College, succeeding a brief tenure of Brother Patrick. September of 1861 saw the first catalogue of Manhattan College issued. The catalogue stated the aims and purposes of the college as offering "the means of acquiring the highest grade of education attained in the best American universities and colleges."

Before 1866, no degrees were awarded. Dr. Cornelius O'Leary stated that there were students ready to receive the A.B. but the authorities thought it better to postpone the awarding of degrees at Commencement until 1866. The first Charter Commencement was held on July 2, 1866. By 1870 the reputation of the College was tenaciously rooted. Most of the expansion and solidifying was carried out by Brother Paulian during his tenure of 1873 - 1879. When Brother Paulian resigned to become Provincial of the St. Louis district, Brother Anthony took over.

By 1879, the College was now within the jaws of a hungrily expanding New York City. The College was shocked into realization when the city, in order to straighten Bloomingdale Road, slapped a $15,000 assessment on it. A new facade was erected in order to make the College face Broadway and various other improvements were made in the buildings and grounds. As time went on, the school progressed in both education and facilities always keeping up with the rapidly growing community.

Brother Anthony was determined to move further north. 1890 found this dream realized with the purchase of a beautiful tract of land in Irvington-On-Hudson. Because of legal technicalities the venture was terminated and the property resold. In 1902 the present site of the College was secured by the purchase of 196 city lots, approximately 12 acres, from Ephraim Levy. The property was bounded by Spuyten Duyvil Parkway and Broadway in the borough of the Bronx. The total cost of the land was $77,500! The College maintained the name of Manhattan College even though it was now located in the wilderness of the Bronx. Four buildings were erected on this property forming a Quadrangle: De La Salle Hall, Manhattan Hall, Administration, and the Chapel. A dormitory was erected shortly thereafter, Chrysostom Hall, to help alleviate the increased demand for boarding facilities at this school in the wilderness.

1917 was a banner year for the college with the completion of the elevated subway up to the 242nd, St. area. With the increase in transportation facilities, Manhattan College became one of the foremost Catholic Colleges for men in the metropolitan area. The College drew heavily on the students graduating from the rapidly increasing number of Catholic High Schools.

The students began to publish various periodicals, such as the Manhattanite and the Koran, a student handbook. It was at the same period that the weekly newspaper, The Quadrangle, first appeared. 1921 saw the opening of Alumni Gymnasium as the home of the "Jaspers". Sports has always played a big role in the life of the students of Manhattan and the traditions developed during this early period have held over to this day. Manhattan College played Miami in the very first Orange Bowl game and the Jaspers were one of the finest football powers in the country during the late 20's and 30's. Basketball and track have also been one of main athletic endeavours in which Manhattan has contributed.

Having always been primarily a Liberal Arts School, the early 20's found Manhattan College starting the various Engineering departments. The School of Engineering officially opened as an accredited Engineering School in 1928, the same year as the School of Business was founded. Engineering courses were being taught prior to this, however. 1933 saw the founding of the Epsilon Sigma Pi Honor Fraternity and the Physical Education Dept.

The Second World War found the College in a precarious position with the great decrease in enrollment due to the war. The facilities of the college were used by the federal government for research and training. The Preparatory School, Manhattan College High School, was built up to help defray the war drain.

The close of the War saw a significant change take place on the campus, the erection of the "shacks". These were temporary buildings were erected to help in the enormous enrollment of students after the War. These pre-fabricated army buildings served as the home of the Engineering School until 1965 at which time they moved to their present home.

1961 saw the completion of the student center, Thomas Hall. Three floors are utilized as dining facilities for boarding and day students and offices of all campus organizations. 1964 was the year in which the school purchased the West Hill Sanitarium property and the conversion of the buildings into residence facilities. As already mentioned, 1965 marked the movement of the Engineering School from the main campus to their new home located several blocks away. The old Fanny Farmer Candy factory was completely renovated and converted into one of the most complete Engineering centers on any campus. The building contains all the latest in engineering equipment; the School of Engineering can boast of being the only undergraduate School of Engineering to have a "critical" nuclear reactor. The Engineering center also contains the Data Processing Center.

September of 1966 found the College with an all time high in enrollment especially in residence students. As a result of an extended program to recruit out of state students, the college was forced to purchase an Apartment Building located several blocks south of the main campus.

From a small school on the tip of Manhattan Island, Manhattan College has grown into one of the largest and finest Catholic Colleges for men in the United States. Every student is proud to be a JASPER.

History of The Manhattan College
School of Business Administration

The School of Business Administration can trace its earliest origins to the School of Arts and Science where, in 1926, a two year program in business subjects was offered for the first time. This two year program was generally concerned with economics and "quantitative methods." The program enjoyed notable progress and was highly acclaimed on the campus. Shortly after the first graduating class received their Bachelor of Science in Business Degrees in 1928, the business program was registered with the Board of Regents in Albany and was chartered to grant degrees in Accounting and General Business.

Thus, September, 1928, marked the first appearance of the new four year School of Business Administration and became located in its present home, De La Salle Hall. June of 1932 saw the first graduating class step out into the business world with their Accounting or General Business concentration. The Bachelor of Science in Business degree was still retained from the old two year program. This class of 1932 went on to contribute several teachers to the college notably, Mr. G. Michael Mestice, present head of the Accounting Department, and Mr. James Cahill, present Professor of Economics at the college.

In 1934, another notable change took place with the degree being changed to a Bachelor of Business Administration. 136 credits were required for graduation with Accounting and General Business still the only two options. It was at the announcement of this change that Dean James L. Fitzgerald, the founder of the School of Business Administration, succinctly stated the aims and purposes of the School of Business to be

".... that the Manhattan School of Business should teach those broad underlying fields of knowledge that are basic to the practice of business and that it should teach the fields of business practice in a broad analytical framework rather than in terms of current or recent business practices."

These words have since been the broad underlying objectives of the School of Business and were reaffirmed throughout Dean Fitzgerald's 30 year term and that of his predecessor, the very late Brother Clement Francis, F.S.C.

Pressure to make the program a more difficult one saw the School of Business change its credit requirements to 141 in order to keep the School of Business up to the highest academic level. The Second World War saw many students come and go through the portals of De La Salle Hall. The war, with its demands for specialization and technology saw the incorporation of the fields of Economics, Marketing, and Labor-Management into the B.B.A. program. These areas were added to give depth to the Business program but never losing sight of the breadth expressed by Dean Fitzgerald - Manhattan was keeping pace with the demands of the modern business world and has always looked to business leaders for guidance and counsel.

In 1953, largely through the efforts of Dean Fitzgerald, and the Bursar, Brother Clement Francis, F.S.C., the Evening Division was established. Essentially it is the same as the regular day program. The Evening Division offered majors in Accounting, Labor-Management, Marketing, and Economics. A minimum of six years was required to complete the program and the B.B.A. degree was awarded.

The year 1961 marked the end of one phase of the Business School. Now an established and respectable undergraduate School of Business, Dean Fitzgerald saw his life's work complete and fittingly retired. Thus began phase two in the history of the Business School.

The reins were turned over to Brother Clement Francis Charters, F.S.C., Associate Professor of Statistics and ex-Bursar. Dean Francis was a man of enormous vision, though short in stature. He was a bundle of energy. One of the first projects he initiated was the Curriculum Guidance Committee, composed of business leaders and educators, whose purpose was to advise the various department heads on the latest business developments and to incorporate such principles in the program were they to be of pertinent nature.

Brother Francis was always sensitive to the student and he therefore established the Dean's Advisory Council, a formal organ of communication between the student and the administration composed of the Presidents and Vice Presidents of all Business organizations. This freedom of communication has made the Business School the most respected of Schools on the campus in terms of its leadership structure.

Always on the lookout for the most recent developments, 1964 found Brother Francis creating the major in Quantitative Business Analysis. At the present time, Manhattan is one of the few undergraduate Schools in the country to offer an undergraduate concentration in Quantitative methods. In accordance with the Eastern Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, Manhattan lowered credit requirements to 131 credits. In line with this was the decision that every student in the School of Business show proficiency in the use and applications of Data Processing and Computer equipment.

1965 saw the addition of International Business and Industrial Management as concentrations. The Moral Tone in Advertising Awards gained National Recognition because of the purpose and scope of the Awards. In 1965, we also saw Brother Francis take an active interest in the formation of Beta Alpha Mu Fraternity. In June of 1966, Brother Francis became seriously ill, an illness from which he never recovered. Brother Francis, Dean of the School of Business and Faculty Moderator of Beta Alpha Mu, passed away on October 3, 1966, and thus ends phase two of The History of the School of Business.

New Fraternity Formed At Manhattan College

Manhattan College has announced the formation of a new fraternity, Beta Alpha Mu. In elections held last week, Dennis Fitzpatrick of 6100 Tyndall Ave., a junior honor student majoring in industrial management, was elected the first president.

Beta Alpha Mu is primarily a professional and secondarily a social fraternity aiming to encourage scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement through professional and social programs.

Pledging for the fraternity is open only to those students regularly enrolled in the School of Business Administration at Manhattan meeting both the academic and social requirements. After several weeks of pledge activity, the fraternity inducted 52 charter members from a group of 120 applicants.

The ultimate goal of Beta Alpha Mu is to petition the national fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi, the largest national professional business fraternity (156 chapters). The petition is expected to take place sometime late in the summer in hope of an early November installation. Although still in its infancy, the fraternity has already sponsored several professional activities and has planned a full schedule of professional and social activities for the summer and the fall semester.

Other officers elected last week include: Robert Petrusch, senior vice - president; Padraic Mulvihill, vice - president; Stephen Dominchetti, treasurer; Bob Pretina, secretary; Chris Constantine of 4362 Grosvenor Ave., chancellor; and Bill Bricker, historian. Brendan Rocks of 3034 Kingsbridge Ave., one of the original founders, was unanimously elected as the chapter advisor.

THE HISTORY OF BETA ALPHA MU FRATERNITY

For many years there was a prevalent feeling at Manhattan's School of Business that there was a vacuum in respect to fraternities on campus. This vacuum was simple to explain--there were no business fraternities or clubs open to all members of the School of Business. There were fraternities and clubs, but these were specialized in that they were restricted to particular majors, such as Marketing or Economics. It was obvious that a business fraternity, open to all members of the School of Business irregardless of their major, was definitely needed. This was the situation until September of 1964.

In September of 1964, the first concrete steps were taken. A self-appointed committee of three began studying the broad objectives they wanted this new fraternity to cover. The committee, consisting of Brother Clement Francis F.S.C., Dean of the School of Business, Kenneth Nolan, a senior, and Brendan Rocks, a junior, began making inquiries into the various national professional business fraternities. The choice was quickly narrowed and among the remaining fraternities was Delta Sigma Pi. After further investigation, the committee became very interested in Delta Sigma Pi but due to the proximity of final examinations they decided to hold off on their decision. The final consensus was that there should be a definite attempt to establish a Chapter of a national professional business fraternity on the campus of Manhattan College.

Careful analysis yielded the information that Delta Sigma Pi was the most suitable fraternity in that its objectives and policies were well within the scope that the committee envisioned for Manhattan's fraternity. A new and more successful attempt to establish a fraternity was undertaken in August of 1965. Brother Francis and Brendan Rocks now came to the conclusion that Delta Sigma Pi was the best choice and that they would proceed with plans to establish a Chapter of this Fraternity on the campus. Mr. Rocks proceeded to contact both the Grand President, Mr. Marko, and the Regional Representative, Mr. Groene. Mr. Rocks met with these two men and returned to the campus with the aims of seeing a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on the campus. It was decided that it would be best to wait several weeks after the opening of school before undertaking a campaign to stimulate interest in a national professional business fraternity.

As time passed, many students showed interest in the plans for establishing a national fraternity in the Business School. An indoctrination program, run by Mr. Rocks, included personal contacting with every student organization leader in the School of Business; this program was designed to find out how much sincere enthusiasm existed. When the first meeting was called, approximately fifteen students responded. The only common goal among them was the desire to see a chapter of a fraternity established. It was at this point that Brother Francis withdrew from the formation of the fraternity and left it up to this group.

The first order of business was to elect temporary officers. These men would hold office until permanent elections could be held. These officers were:

President-	Brendan Rocks
Senior V. P.	Robert Petrausch
Exec. V.P.	Donald Butler
Treasurer	- Dennis Fitzpatrick
Secretary	- Ricky Burns
Chancellor	- Robert Pretina
Historian	- William Bricker

Following this a non-partisan committee composed of the officers began a screening program according to a set of designated criteria. Once a tentative program had been established, the committee began to seriously screen the applicants. One hundred and twenty students applied for admittance, a number far beyond the fondest expectations of any of the committee. Beta Alpha Mu, standing for Business Administration at Manhattan, set their standards high enough in order to maintain the academic aspect of the fraternity in line with its professional objectives. A minimum of a 2.3 index (75) was the first requirement, reasonable activity in extra-curricular activities, and a true desire to participate in the plans of a professional business fraternity. Approximately 45 applicants were accepted as pledges from this original group.

Shortly hereafter, a representative group met with Grand President Marko and Representative Groene at New York University. This early March meeting proved very enlightening to the men who attended and the procedures to be followed in petitioning to Delta Sigma Pi were outlined in some detail. Messrs. Marko and Groene took great interest in the way in which Beta Alpha Mu had organized and grown. As this representative group returned to the campus, it was evident that they were filled with an even greater enthusiasm and desire to see Beta Alpha Mu succeed.

During the remainder of the year, the fraternity had a number of guests speakers and other professional and social activities. The speakers: Roxane Cotsakis, Copy Supervisor at Young & Rubicam Advertising, on the topic of "Beware The Businessman In Skirts"; Mr. Reidy, Systems Programmer with National Dairy Products; and Doug Fischer, of Merril, Lynch Stockbrokerage. Elections for the upcoming year were held on May 13, 1966. The officers elected were:

President- Dennis M. Fitzpatrick
Senior V.P. - Robert Petrusch
Exec. V.P. - Michael Olds
Treasurer - Steve Dominichette
Secretary - Robert Pretina
Chancellor - Chris Constantine
Historian - William Bricker

Brendan Rocks was unanimously elected as Chapter Advisor and Brother Francis was chosen as the Faculty Moderator. The new officers met with Mr. Groene prior to the summer vacation and plans for the summer and coming fall semester were discussed. A beer party was held on June 3rd., 1966 at President Fitzpatrick's house and Mr. Groene showed slides on Delta Sigma Pi that he had obtained from Mr. Farrar, the Executive Secretary of Delta Sigma Pi. A good time was had by all. Committees were established at this time to begin work on the various phases of the petition in order to have a head start when school reopened in September.

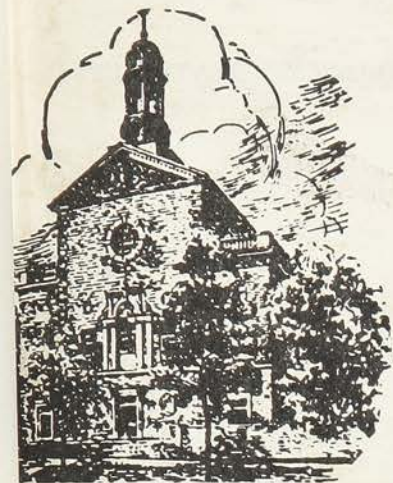

During the summer the brothers of Beta Alpha Mu held a tour of the Data Processing facilities of Allstate Insurance Co. and had two beach parties and a softball game. Each of these events was well attended and showed that the fraternity was serious in its efforts.

September found plans being formulated for the coming semester and the preparation of the histories for the petition well under way. September 30th. was marked by the visit of Representative Groene and two members of Alpha Chapter at New York University. After a film, sponsored by Beta Alpha Mu, the officers of Beta Alpha Mu and their guests lunched together in the Student Center; this was the final meeting between the fraternity and our Regional Representative prior to our petitioning. We were given last minute advice and counsel by the men from Alpha Chapter and they promised their support to our petition, for which we are grateful.

October 3rd. marked a day of sadness for the brothers of Beta Alpha Mu. Brother Clement Francis, Dean and faculty moderator of Beta Alpha Mu, passed away after a short but serious illness. That Wednesday, October 5th., it was decided to bring the Dean into our Fraternity as a Charter Member, In Memoriam. Mr Alphonse Petrocine, law professor and trial lawyer, accepted the post as Faculty Moderator.

The history of Beta Alpha Mu has been a busy one and a very work and fun filled one. The culmination of many hours work on the part of each and every one of the members who signed this petition is contained in this document. It is hoped that the history of Beta Alpha Mu has warranted the granting of a charter so that we may become a chapter of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

BAM IS HERE!

The long awaited aspiration of the students of the School of Business has become a reality in recent weeks. A fraternity, open to all the students in the school of business, irregardless of their major, has been founded. This fraternity is Beta Alpha Mu.

For some time it had been realized that there was a shortcoming of fraternities orientated to the school of business. The first step towards the solution of the problem was recently taken by a group of students. The students felt that Manhattan needed such a fraternity and they decided to do something about it. Under the auspices of Dean Francis and Breanda Rocks, President of the Businessmen's Association, a meeting was arranged with the national and regional directors of the business fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi. At this meeting the manner in which a chapter of this national fraternity could be started at Manhattan, was outlined.

After this meeting, the necessary preliminary steps were undertaken by this group. They began by electing temporary officers and calling a general meeting at which applications were distributed to those interested. It appeared that this was the organization that the students had long desired, as more than one hundred applied. They received the fraternity with enthusiasm beyond all expectations.

It was decided by the President pro tempore, Brendan Rocks, that the fraternity would conduct its activities under the name of Beta Alpha Mu (BAM) until the time it received national recognition.

At the present time a schedule of activities has been set up and all the applicants are being screened by a committee to determine if they fulfill the requirements. Those accepted will be the charter members of Manhattan's new business fraternity -- a fraternity which all businessmen at Manhattan College can be proud of!

"Management and Operations Research"

SPEAKER

William E. Reidy - Assistant to the Director of Systems and Procedures - National Dairy Products, was the guest speaker sponsored by the Businessmen's Association and Beta Alpha Mu.

Mr. Reidy joined National Dairy following a successful marketing and market planning career with the IBM Corporation. Most recently he served as Industry Marketing Representative - Food and Distribution Industries with that company. He has served as national account representative for the Kraft Foods division of National Dairy, and the Consolidated Foods Corporation.

While working with Kraft Management he supervised a study team from IBM which studied the management information requirements in the areas of Marketing Distribution, Production Planning and Production Control.

Mr. Reidy assisted in the design and implementation of the first computer controlled freezer warehouse. Among his contributions was the development of a simulation program to determine the operating requirements of automatic cranes and conveyor equipment which aided in the physical design of the system.

Mr. Reidy holds a degree in Business Administration from the University of Notre Dame and has done graduate work at the University of Chicago.

Dear Mr. Farrow:

Letters Of Recommendation

I am very pleased to have the pleasure of writing to you on behalf of the members of the local group of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi at the University of Delaware.

From all that I have been able to determine, there is an active student interest in our organization. The local group carried out a full program of professional activities during the last academic year and plans similar activities during 1967-68. Also, to indicate the interest of the membership, I might mention that the members met during the summer months and were a considerable part of the data processing center of All State Insurance Company in White Plains, New York.

If granted full membership, you might wish to consider the possibility of having a representative of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi at the University of Delaware.

The members of the local group are very interested in your organization.

Sincerely,
Franklin D. Meyer

Mr. Charles Farrar
Executive Director
International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi
330 South Campus Avenue
Oxford, Ohio

Dear Mr. Farrar:

I am very pleased to endorse the petition of Beta Alpha Mu of Manhattan College to become affiliated with the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

From all that I have been able to observe, there is an active student interest in such affiliation. Our local group carried out a full program of professional activities during the last academic year and plans another full schedule during 1966-67. Also, to indicate the interest of the membership, I might mention that its members met during the summer recess and took a conducted tour of the data processing center of All State Insurance Company in White Plains, New York.

If granted full membership, Beta Alpha Mu might easily become one of the outstanding student organizations on the Manhattan College campus.

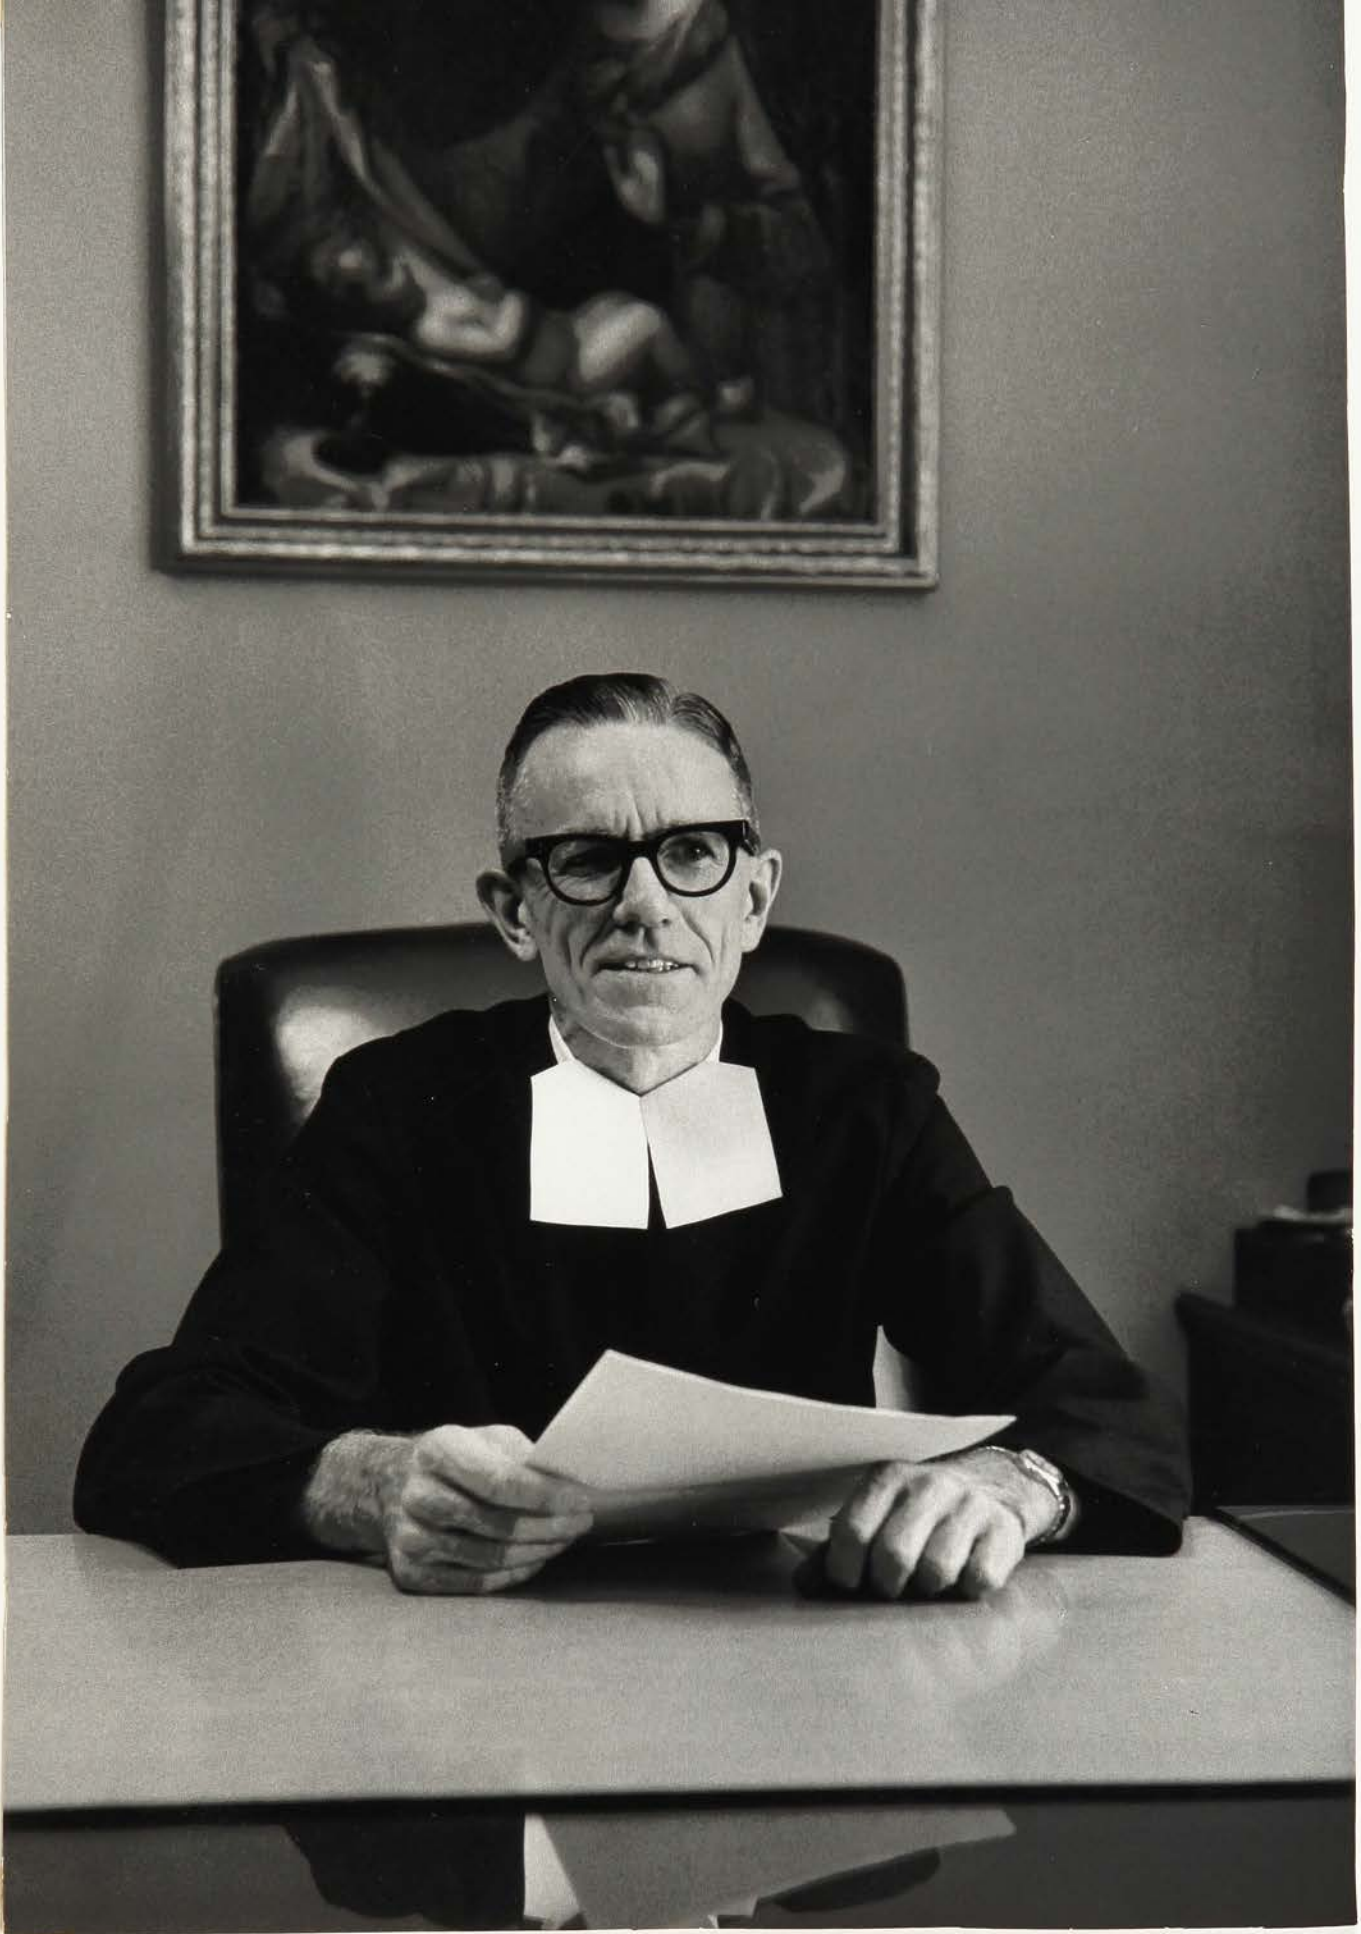

The application has my hearty and official endorsement.

Sincerely,

Brother Gregory, F.S.C.

Dear Mr. Ferrar:

Dennis Fitzpatrick, a Senior in the School of Business of Manhattan College, has requested my endorsement of the application by Beta Alpha Mu for affiliation with the international fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

During the past year the activities of this group at Manhattan College included guest speakers, tours of business installations, a schedule of films, and an on-campus mixer. These activities represented a balanced program of academic and social affairs.

In view of these well prepared programs, I am happy to give the endorsement requested by Mr. Fitzpatrick.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Farrar:

I am most pleased to endorse the petition of Beta Alpha Mu to become affiliated as a Chapter of Delta Sigma Pi, the International Professional Business Fraternity.

From all the reports that I have received, there is considerable student interest in this affiliation. I am quite impressed by the amount of diligent and mature effort demonstrated by the group in preparation for this petition.

It is my expectation that this Charter, if granted, will prove mutually advantageous to the Manhattan College School of Business Administration and to Delta Sigma Pi.

If there is anything more I can do to further the course of Beta Alpha Mu, please be assured that I shall be happy to cooperate in every way.

With kindest regards, I remain,

Mr. Charles Farrar
Executive Director
International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi
330 South Campus Avenue
Oxford, Ohio

Dear Mr. Farrar:

As acting Dean of the School of Business at Manhattan College it is my pleasure to formally endorse the petition of Beta Alpha Mu Fraternity to become a member of Delta Sigma Pi. Dean Brother Clement Francis, former moderator of Beta Alpha Mu, has passed away and I have been appointed in a temporary capacity.

I understand that it was Brother Francis' desire that the Manhattan fraternity be accepted as a member of Delta Sigma Pi. He was very proud of the members of the Fraternity and of the wonderful impression that they made on Campus.

The many professional activities which the members of the fraternity have sponsored on the Campus have indicated that they are a credit to the College and especially the School of Business. I feel that they are worthy to be accepted as members of Delta Sigma Pi and will be a credit to that organization.

The men who comprise the fraternity are all outstanding members of the School of Business at Manhattan College. It is indeed a pleasure to see their efforts culminate in this petition. I heartily and sincerely endorse it.

Sincerely,

Brother Columban Walter Tobbe
