To the Board of Directors of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi

Dear Members of the Board of Directors:

We, the undersign members of the Sigma Delta Chi colony, hereby petition for a charter to establish a chapter of the international fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi on the campus of University of St. Thomas, St. Paul, Minnesota.

Sigma Delta Chi was established exclusively for the purpose of affiliation with Delta Sigma Pi Professional Fraternity. The present goals, purposes and requirements reflected in our constitution and by-laws were patterned after and are commensurate with the same high ideals of Delta Sigma Pi.

In pursuit of this affiliation, the members of Sigma Delta Chi colony pledge to uphold the rules and regulations as set forth in the constitution and by-laws of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi and to further carry out its tradition and programs.

Board of Directors International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi 330 South Campus Avenue, P.O. Box 230 Oxford, OH 45056-0230

RE: RECOMMENDATION FOR CHAPTER CHARTER

Dear Board of Directors:

I have been working closely with the Colony of Sigma Delta Chi at the University of St. Thomas since April, 1994 to guide their development so that they may fulfill the necessary requirements for a chapter charter and parallel the mission of the International Fraternity of Delta Sigma Pi.

In my many positions held since my initiation, none have been as challenging and rewarding as that of Co-District Director for the Colony of Sigma Delta Chi. The level of energy, enthusiasm and intelligence the members have demonstrated has become an inspiration for all they have worked and been in contact with.

The members of the Colony have proved to be very eager to learn about Delta Sigma Pi and have taken on their task of colonization with a bold, go get 'em attitude. They have quickly picked up on organizational and operational skills necessary in business and have developed many new and creative ideas in pursuing their goals.

The goals of the University of St. Thomas emphasize a "top of the line" education balanced with outside activity, such as on-going community service. The University and its faculty stand behind Sigma Delta Chi's efforts to bring a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi on board its array of student organizations. These principles and support play a key role in the strength the Colony has been able to build and maintain. Letter of Recommendation Sigma Delta Chi Colony Page 2

With the Colony's motto of "pursue and succeed" and the support of the University, I am honored to recommend the installation of a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi at the University of St. Thomas and believe this will be a valuable asset both to the Division of Business at the University of St. Thomas and to our proud organization.

Fraternally yours,

relia Gohman

Sigma Delta Chi Colony of Delta Sigma Pi University of St. Thomas St. Paul, MN. 55105

Members of the Board of Directors:

What a great pleasure it has been to work with the members of Sigma Delta Chi Colony. They have shown great enthusiasm to the programs of Delta Sigma Pi. This enthusiasm has helped them reach the requirements for a chapter charter in a short period of time.

With high visibility on campus, excellent professional, social, and service events, coupled with strong facility support they will soon be one of our fraternities strongest chapters. Because of outstanding effort of many colony members and some dedicated alumni a solid foundation is set for the North Central Region's newest chapter.

I fully support and anxiously await the installation of the Delta Sigma Chi Colony as a chartered chapter of Delta Sigma Pi. I would like to thank all those that have worked so hard to make this colony a success.

Dale M. Clark The Central Office PO Box 230 Oxford, OH 45056-0230

Dear Brother Clark:

It is with the highest level of sincerity and confidence that I write this letter of recommendation to install the Sigma Delta Chi Colony at the University of St. Thomas as a chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

In my experiences with the Colonists I have found them to be dedicated, hard-working, morally sound professionals. Through there various activities on campus and there participation at local and regional events I believe they have illustrated there commitment to the standards and progress of Delta Sigma Pi both at St. Thomas and within the North Central Region. The interpersonal characteristics of these individuals represent "the best" that our fraternity has to offer.

The faculty at St. Thomas is also committed to the success of Delta Sigma Pi on campus. Through various meetings with the Director of Student Services and other professors I have discovered that the faculty of St. Thomas is concerned with both the academic achievements and professional development of there students. I have personally never encountered a faculty so committed to the progress of extracurricular activities on a campus. I believe they recognize the contributions that Delta Sigma Pi can make to the education and development of there students.

In summary, I believe the Colony at the University of St. Thomas will make an outstanding addition to the fraternity and the North Central Region. I think this group has the potential to become a model chapter of Delta Sigma Pi.

Fraternally,

John Zak District Director Alpha Epsilon Chapter

Colony of Delta Sigma Pi

Colony History

In November of 1993, a group of Delta Sigma Pi brothers made a presentation at the University of St. Thomas in St. Paul, MN. The presentation was targeted at a group of men and women who were members of an organization titled Collegiate Management Association (CMA) in hopes of gaining enough interest to pioneer a colony. CMA was formed earlier that year to include men and women business majors of all concentrations. The meeting was held in a classroom in McNeely Hall where most Division of Business classes are held.

There were five brothers from the Alpha Epsilon Chapter who made the presentation. They spoke to an audience of five CMA members, who listened earnestly to their testimonies of the privileges of being a DeltaSig. They spoke of brotherhood, professionalism, and growing that is achieved through Delta Sigma Pi.

A couple of the listeners were intrigued enough to attend an Alpha Epsilon meeting at the University of Minnesota two months later. Jon Zak, the District Director for Alpha Epsilon, served as a contact between the UST students and Delta Sigma Pi. David Shae and Holly Shoden were the first UST attendees at the AE meeting. The DeltaSigs were very helpful and hospitable to their guests. At the end of the meeting David and Holly discussed calling an informational meeting at UST. The meeting was to be lead by Jenny Oas and Jon Zak, who could answer questions and help get the colony underway. Dave and Holly's role was to gather students and recruit possible Delta Sigs.

A group of interested business students helped send a mass mailing to all business majors at the University of St. Thomas. At our first meeting in February of 1994, we had a turn out of approximately 15 men and women.

With the assistance of Jon and Jenny, we held more informational sessions succeeding at UST. The colony was generating greater interest. Jon lead the first few meetings where the first officers were elected and the colony letters were selected. In determining the colony letters, a discussion broke out about choosing significant letters, but it we were determined to chose letters that would look nice on a sweatshirt! We chose Sigma Delta Chi ($\Sigma\Delta X$).

From there, membership blossomed and then stabilized. We had approximately 25 paid colony and the first elected officers were:

President	Holly Shoden
Senior V.P.	Tricia Heath
Chancellor	David Shae
V.P. Professional Activities	Nick Peterson
Treasurer	Clinton Freeman
Chapter Efficiency Index (CEI)	Kerry Waschke
Secretary	Steph Potas
Historian	Meighan Krager
Community Service	Anne Cheiner
V.P. Finance	Jeff Kennefick
V.P. Social Actives	Erica Thorngren
Alumni Relations	Eric Berg
	Joe Hennen

As the year progressed, our colony improved membership by holding activities in which the members could get to know each other better. We had a professional and social activities. Some of those included a tour and speaker at Medtronics, a BBQ at Minneahaha Falls, and the Business Manager of Soul Asylum as a speaker. We also hosted a coffee with the business faculty so that they could familiarize themselves with Delta Sigma Pi. The school year quickly came to a halt and we elected our new officers for the 1994-95 school year. Most officers either held their positions or were elected to a new position. We were excited about the coming year.

We began the 1994 school year by sending a mass mailing again to all St. Thomas business majors. We had a very strong response and many people showed a great interest at the initial meetings. St. Thomas has an activities fair in the fall. $\Delta\Sigma X$ had a booth and all of the colony members wore our green sweatshirts. Fifty people signed up to be on our mailing list. We had many people attend a couple meetings and then lose interest. Thirty-five people were paid members and nearly every week from September-December we had new faces at every meeting.

The colony was very active in the fall and winter of 1994-95. The following were our projects for the fall and winter:

- Attended the Regional Conference, Des Moines, Iowa
- Hosted a business speaker on the international export business
- Hosted a St. Thomas speaker on Career Counseling Services
- Hosted a speaker on Time Management
- Attended the Regional Volleyball/Basketball Tourney
- Christmas Party
- Founders' Day Party

- Wrote the Petition
- Began the Pledge Process
- Toured Andersen Consulting
- Toured Summit Brewery
- Pledge Party with Alpha Epsilon
- Bowling for Kids' Sake
- Speaker on personal investments
- Speaker on Team Building

These are just a few of the many, memorable events that we have done since the beginning of the 1994 school year.

The colony has been very dedicated and is working hard at making our installation and initiation day one to remember. The colony should be very proud of its members. We are examples of people who are not afraid of risks; we are willing to step out of the bounded parameters and by doing so, we allow ourselves room to soar above the rest.

We are the students of commerce who truly believe in the purpose of Delta Sigma Pi and we are those people who live our lives by this creed of eternal commitment to business and ethical standards of the world.

History of St. Paul, MN

In the mid-19th century, St. Paul was made up of two towns: Upper Landing and Lower Landing. They were separated by bluffs that dominated the area. They were not only divided by the bluffs and swampy bottom land, but also had their own residential and business communities. There was an intense rivalry between them. Although there were a few American families living in the area, most were French Canadians and Swiss. English was the language of only a few residents.

Henry Jackson opened the first store in the area in 1842. He sold liquor, food and clothes among many other things. Later, he was appointed the first postmaster and created the first post office. Very slowly, St. Paul began to draw away from its rough life. Other merchants arrived and by 1844, St. Paul had five stores, a log chapel and a tavern. In 1845, Mrs. Matilda Rumsey arrived to help open the first school in Upper Landing. Two years later, Harriet Bishop arrived and became St. Paul's first permanent teacher.

Because of river transportation, St. Paul became the fur-trading center of the northwest. Pelts were brought in by ox cart from the Red River region and shipped off on steamboats along the Mississippi. Fur trading brought in only $1,400 in 1844, but it grew steadily to more a million dollar industry for the St. Paul merchants.

One of the most significant events was the creation of Minnesota Territory on March 3, 1849, and the naming of St. Paul as its capital. After this St. Paul's population began to increase heavily. In the 1850 census the population had reached 910 residents.

Following the Civil War, St. Paul became an area of property with the popularity of the railroad. From a ten mile stretch of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad from St. Paul to St. Anthony, the railroad grew over the next 30 years to a nation-wide network starting from the hub of St. Paul. Twelve rail lines were built and 8 million passengers used the St. Paul Union Depot in 1888.

With the explosion of people traveling through the city of St. Paul, meeting halls, theaters and playgrounds were built along with the city's first Chamber of Commerce.

The world famous St. Paul Winter Carnival was revived in 1916. It had been originally created in 1886 to prove to the world that one can live during the winter in Minnesota. The main feature of the carnival is the palace made out of ice, which could be considered a rare feat of architecture.

In 1942, the population of St. Paul reached close up to 300,000 people. Many men returned to the war and began to migrate to the suburbs to raise families. Within 15 years, St. Paul suburbs had quadrupled in size.

The flow to the suburbs left St. Paul a dying city, but in the 1970's, people organized to turn the city around. There was major construction and restoration, including the historic Landmark Center in the heart of downtown. The Ordway Music Theater, one of the finest in the nation, and the World Trade Center gave St. Paul an international reputation.

Today St. Paul, along with its sister city of Minneapolis, prove to be the International center of the midwest. Many Fortune 500 companies have located to the area and have helped support the continued growth of a strong and beautiful metropolitan city.

UNIVERSITY OF ST. THOMAS ST. PAUL, MINNESOTA 55105

History of St. Thomas

The University of St. Thomas is a private, coeducational, Catholic, Liberal Arts university located in St. Paul, Minnesota. The University was founded in 1885 by Archbishop John Ireland, less than a year after he was installed as St. Paul's third bishop. Originally the school began as St. Thomas Aquinas Seminary with 62 male students and five faculty members. Today, St. Thomas is Minnesota's largest private university with four campuses and over 9,000 students.

The main campus of St. Thomas resides on the western end of St. Paul's historic Summit Avenue. The buildings near the river bluff were originally built on farmland that was still considered to be outside of town in the late 1800's. Today the main campus is the center of a residential area between the downtowns of St. Paul and Minneapolis. The University also offers a wide range of programs at its Owatonna based Gainey Conference Center, established in 1982, its Chaska Education Center and Enterprise Center established in 1984. In 1992 the University also established a permanent campus is downtown Minneapolis.

In its first decade, St. Thomas was a high school, college, and seminary where students enrolled in either the classical or theological departments. In 1984 the theological department moved to an adjacent campus where it became The Saint Paul Seminary. The classical department remained on the original campus and became the College of St. Thomas.

The classical department gradually grew to a four-year college curriculum. The first baccalaureate degrees were given in 1910 and St. Thomas was officially accredited in 1916. The classical departments first four years became the St. Thomas Military Academy, a high school that moved to a suburban campus in 1965.

After 92 years of all-male enrollment, St. Thomas became coeducational in 1977. Today, 50 percent of the undergraduates and more that 40 percent of the graduate students are women.

St. Thomas offers many cultural events, organizations and social activities to the student body. All student organizations are governed by the student government. Some of these clubs are organized around the career objectives of their members or according to their major field of interest; others are organized according to common interests.

The athletic department includes 20 varsity sports and several junior varsity programs. Other student activities include theater and film, musical organizations and student publications such as the Aquin newspaper and yearbook along with the literary magazine Summit Avenue Express.

Becoming coeducational along with new graduate programs has increased the growth of St. Thomas. Enrollment increased from under 2,000 students in 1970 to over 9,000 today. Some 4,000 of those students, many of them working adults, are enrolled in the University's 26 undergraduate programs. Older students at the undergraduate level are served through the New College, which was started in 1975.

Education, Human Development and Professional Psychology were the university's first graduate programs. Established in 1950, it now offers degrees on the master's, specialist, and doctoral levels. The doctorate in educational leadership began in 1987; the doctorate of psychology began in 1990.

Graduate programs in Management, the largest graduate program at St. Thomas, began in 1974 and now enrolls over 2,000.

The original classical and theological departments of St. Thomas came together once again in 1987 through an affiliation between the seminary and university. Together they created the School of Divinity which offers graduate degrees in pastoral studies, divinity and theology.

Many non-degree programs are offered by St. Thomas through ten specialized centers devoted to management and business, senior citizens, lifecare, creative studies, Jewish-Christian dialogue, and music.

St. Thomas is also the home to the undergraduate St. John Vianney Seminary, and to the Catholic Digest, the largest selling magazine of its kind in the world.

The University is accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools and Association of Theological Schools. Its teacher preparation programs are accredited by the National Council for the Accreditation of Teacher Education. Many other programs are also accredited by such associations as American Chemistry Society and Council on Social Work Education. St. Thomas, is mainly recognized as a business institution, has built a reputation in the region as a highly respected college that allows students to achieve a high quality education along with providing the opportunity to tap into the vast amount of Fortune 500 companies, corporations, and small developing business through out the Twin Cities.

Campus Background

ALBERTUS MAGNUS SCIENCE HALL

Albertus Magnus was completed in 1947. It was built facing Summit Avenue, balancing the Administration building and joined to it by a double arched gateway. The Albertus magnus hall was named after St. Albert the Great, the "Universal Doctor" who was St. Thomas Aquinas' teacher at Cologne and Paris. The building currently hosts the chemistry, Biology, Physics and Math Departments. In 1963 a greenhouse was added to the side of the building for botanists and beauty. In the winter of 1994, St. Thomas approved a new $15 million building for the science department to be completed in the fall of 1997.

Campus Background

AQUINAS HALL

Aquinas Hall, also known as the administration building, was built in 1932. The style is a Gothic Collegiate which is the classic design of all the building on the St. Thomas campus. The original cost of the building was $300,000. Originally the building was to host a large study hall, book store, supply room and a small library along with administration offices and 28 classrooms. Today, the building hosts the Theology department, classrooms and the administration offices

Campus Background

BRADY HALL

Brady Hall is a five story male residence hall. It was built in 1967 for $1,172,600. The corner stone of the building includes a copy of the Aquin newspaper, a college catalog and handbook, and a 1967-68 calendar of events. The building was named after the Archbishop of St. Paul, William O'Brady. The dorm is connected to Dowling Hall by underground tunnels. Brady Hall annually host the Brady Hall Olympics every spring.

Campus Background

CHRIST CHILD BUILDING

The Christ Child building was donated to St. Thomas in 1977. The building became the headquarters for the Department of Education and Community Services, as well as the headquarters of the Center for Religious Education and graduate programs in pastoral studies.

Campus Background

COLLEGE CHAPEL

This chapel was built in 1918 to replace the original chapel that had become to small and outdated. The new chapel has three altars, a main alter and an area dedicated to the devotion of the Blessed Sacrament, separated from the altar area by a marble screen modeled on that in the Sistine Chapel. The Chapel has since been remodeled twice due to the liturgical rites produced by the Second Vatican Council requiring changes in the physical settings.

Campus Background

DOWLING HALL

Dowling Hall was built in 1959 for $1,200,000. The four story building hosts 300 hundred students and four study halls. The all female dormitory was named in honor of the Archbishop Austin Dowling. As a long standing tradition, in the spring Dowling Hall hosts the annual pig roast in the campus square for all St. Thomas students.

Campus Background

IRELAND HALL

Ireland Hall was built in 1912 to start accommodating the increasing number of students. The building was built with a center hall and two wings that was home to male residence and priest living quarters. Ireland Hall was the first building to be lighted with electricity through out the entire building. The building was named after Archbishop John Ireland.

Campus Background

JOHN PAUL II

John Paul II residence hall was built in 1978 to house male students. The building is formatted in apartment style set up with two room and a bathroom to accommodate four students. Today the residence hall is a female dorm. The building was named after the current Pope John Paul.

Campus Background

MCNEELY HALL

McNeely Hall was bought by the university in 1977. Originally the building was home to William Mitchell Law School which later moved to a larger campus. McNeely Hall is home to the Division of Business and the headquarters to the graduate programs in management. The building was named after two trustees, Adelaide and Harry McNeely.

Campus Background

O'SHAUGHNESSY LIBRARY

O'Shaughnessy Library was constructed in 1959 in the classic gothic style to complement the other St. Thomas buildings. The library is lined with stained glass medallions representing major writers and philosophers, popular classics, explorers, academic disciplines and founders of religious orders. The three story, forty-six room building cost $1.6 million to build. Students moved 80,000 books from Aquinas Hall relay style to the new library. Today the building is home to over 250,000 books.

Division of Business

History of the Department

The Division of Business at St. Thomas was established in 1950 following a substantial increase of veteran enrollment. In the immediate postwar period, all business courses were included within the program of the Department of Economics. This department offered two majors: economics, and business and economics. In 1948, enrollment peaked at 2,200 students with twenty-eight percent majoring in business and economics.

With such a huge concentration in the area of business and economics, Dr. Franz Mueller, chairman of the Department of Economics, recommended that a separate Department of Business Administration be established. The Chairman of the new department was to be Roman Sevenich, an accounting teacher with a law degree. Sevenich contributed twenty-eight years to building a strong staff to accommodate the steadily increasing enrollment in business courses and designed a cooperative program between St. Thomas and the College of St. Catherine.

Today, the business department is the strong corner stone of the University of St. Thomas with the majority of students concentrating in the area of business. The University offers nine available majors within the division including the rapidly growing area of international business.

In 1974, the University began to see that there was a strong need for a Masters of Business Administration (MBA) in the metropolitan area with such a large number of corporate headquarters. The first master's program in business was established and has grown substantially through out the decades and was used for a model in other institutions, including the University of Minnesota. St. Thomas also responded to the rapidly growing area of international business by establishing a master's program known as the Masters of International Business (MIM). The program was created in 1984 and remains one of the few programs of its kind in the nation.

Today, the University of St. Thomas continues to build a reputation as a highly challenging institution that offers students the skills to meet the demands of the ever changing business world.

Division of Business

Description of Functional Specialties Offered

The Division of Business at The University of St. Thomas places emphasis on combining thorough academic preparation with realistic practical experience. A significant proportion of the students participate in consulting assignments developed through the Small Business Institute. Many also take advantage of the opportunities for internships and cooperative programs with businesses. The faculty can enhance the practical experience since a majority of the members of the department have had significant business experiences.

Business Administration - This program offers the opportunity to acquire a general understanding of decision making within a business context. Students begin by building a foundation of basic knowledge and skills with core business classes in economics, statistics, computer concepts and communications. They can then take a series of business courses that span the functional areas of business. Students who elect general business curriculum have the maximum flexibility to freely select courses to meet their specific interests.

Accounting - Students who concentrate in accounting receive preparation for careers either in public accounting or in managerial accounting. The program meets the provisions set by most state Boards of Accountancy and other qualifying organizations under which graduates are permitted to sit for professional examinations without prior work experience.

Finance - Students who concentrate in finance receive preparation for the financial service industries or for financial departments of non-financial corporations. Financial service industries would include banks, insurance companies, and investments firms. In addition to meeting needs for specific preparation, the study of finance is really applied microeconomics.

Marketing- Students electing the marketing concentration prepare themselves for selling and marketing careers. Marketing specialists also pursue careers in advertising, public relations, marketing research, distribution, and retailing.

Human Resource - This area emphasizes the behavioral aspects of management in preparing students for careers in managing. It attracts students whose interests gravitate toward personnel activities. Those activities would include recruiting, wage and salary administration, training and development, labor relations, and collective bargaining. Operations Management - This concentration is concerned with the management of people, material, equipment, information, and other resources used in the production of goods and services by an organization. This concentration includes both behavioral and quantitative aspects of management. Emphasis in this area prepares students for analytical and supervisory positions.

Entrepreneurship - The concentration in entrepreneurship is designed for students who are considering owning their own business at some point in their career. Emphasis is on the development of creative interpersonal and communication skills, leadership and self esteem, the development and expansion of an individual business.

International Business - The international business option requires the student to take several additional courses. Furthermore, the student will participate in their junior year abroad in one of the several cooperating programs in non-english speaking foreign university. It is required that all courses taken abroad be taught in the language of the host country.
